DR. CECIL R. PAUL

As accomplished as he was in his profession, his greatest success was that of a husband and a father.

To his wife, Judy, he was more than a husband. He was her best friend. He was constantly challenging her in new directions, finding doors in her life when she could only see walls. Their's was truly a case of love at first sight. Dad shares of how those deep dark eyes of his melted her heart so much so that after their very first meeting she ran home and told her roommate that she had found the man she was going to marry.

While Dad was still full of life and energy, Bruce asked to share with our church a few simple words about what he Dad meant to him. He was overcome with emotion and broke down in tears before finishing his first sentence.

How could Wesley describe what if felt like to journey into Maine woods, or pick out stars in the night's sky with his dad? Or the joy he felt when handing dad his first granddaughter?

And how could Jonathan describe the peace and security dad was able to provide in a world which is too often too harsh and too cruel. And how could he describe Dad's love when he told him that he'd turned his life over to Christ?

Ultimately, it is this-a life in Christ, which is the greatest gift he has given his sons. He led them to Christ by example. There was no hypocrisy between the life he spoke about and the life he led.

As for Janet and I, we had the rarest of privileges. This wonderful man went from being, Dr. Paul, a well known and respected man in the church, to becoming, in a very real sense, our other dad. Our love for him and his love for us erased all "in-law" references.

We are both so proud and grateful that he got to know his first granddaughter and his first grandson.

It was wonderful to watch his whole being light up as he greatly bounced Hannah on his knee and made her giggle.

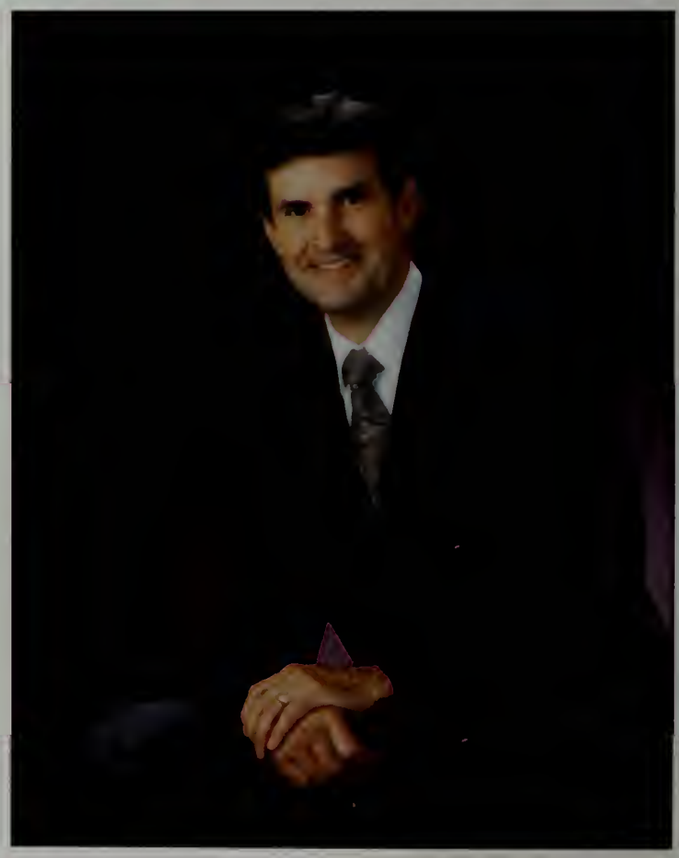
And forever etched in my heart and mind will be the image of Little Wes taking his grandpa by the hand and walking him out to the car as dad began his last day of earth.

As brother, husband, father and grandfather, he was deeply loved and will be deeply missed. As much as we feel as a family, however, we are not unaware of the great pain is loss is causing all of you. It is with this sin mind that I thought I might share with you some words he had recently written:

"The final word is that nothing can separate you from the love of God. As God intervened in times past, he can intervene in your present struggles with the powers of bondage, separation and death. This is why you can exercise "nevertheless I believe," knowing that even the darkest night of your soul can never separate you from the everlasting love of God."

We as a family and as a community have lost our cheerleader. He loved so many of you and thought so highly of you. He felt that the potential for our church, for Christ and for each of us as individuals was limitless. As he has so often said, he saw more in us that we saw in ourselves.

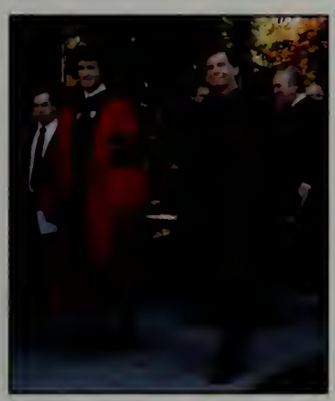
Now that he is gone we have no choice but to believe as he was right all along. - Mary Paul



I was a high privilege in my life to serve with Cecil on the administrative team and it is an incalculable loss to be without his empowering leadership. I deeply miss our discussions, his ready smile, his encouragement, his dreaming. He was a visionary in every sense of the word. But unlike Don Quixote who dreams seldom reached fruition-Cecil had an ability through his intelligence, creativity, and perseverance to breathe life and structure into his visions. I have never met anyone who had so deep an understanding of the importance of a vision which propels us beyond ourselves and self-absorption and stagnation and provides the energy for creative community and identity anchored in our pursuit of the mind of Christ.

As a dreamer, he did not lose his dreams in some nebulous future time frame. He would so often open his public comments by declaring, "This is the day that the Lord has made, let us rejoice and be glad in it." He understood in a profound way that we were called to live out our vision today-improving this present moment and not waiting for some future month or year. He also understood the need to celebrate what God was doing in out midst.

He could analyze the big picture without losing sight of its individual components. He sough to turn difficulties into opportunitie.



Cecil had learned that it was not what he did that mattered but who he belonged to that made the difference in his life. He lived out a deep awareness that he was a child of God. As a mew creation in Christ, his words reflected the priority of truth, the integrity of character, the strength of consistency and authenticity. His actions flowed from his deep commitments to equality, respect for the individual and participation in decision-making. He had a heart of compassion coupled with a commitment to speak the truth in love. Balancing all of these attributes, while not easy, was important to him and he walked that tight-rope as well as anyone I have known.

He had the uncanny ability to convince you that you really could do something and then he'd stand back and keep affirming you and then one day it would finally dawn on you that you were, indeed, doing it. He could generously affirm and encourage because he was not caught up in games of power. He delighted in watching those in the ever-widening circles around him, grow and succeed. Countless individuals could give testimony to that. As a women, I am very grateful to him for having the courage to include women as administrators. I am very sad that I didn't have more time to learn from him. There was so much more for him to teach and for me to learn.

The gospel of John reminds us, "greater love has no one than this than one lay down his life for his friends. You were his friends. Cecil poured out his efforts, his creativity, his dreams, his hopes into this community. He loved this community. He sought to live out his pursuit of the mind of Christ in this community. Our greatest tribute to him will be to take up our portions of the tasks and to allow the memory of his life enlivened by the love of God, to encourage and inspire our own journeys and life of this college and community.

Philippians 2: 14-16 tells us that as children of God we can shine like stars in the universe as we hold out the words of life to our hurting generation. Cecil was a shining star. Ten years ago, Cecil wrote in Choices." Everyone's life becomes the instrument of someone or something. Whose instrument are we and what songs are we playing with our lives? Are we shining like stars? We cannot cloister ourselves if we want a world to see the reflected light of Christ. We must take the challenge to combine our vision for service with our power to serve. Only then will our pursuit of wholeness make us instruments of God."

I thank God for the Song God played through Cecil's life. May it be a continuing inspiration to us all. Dr. Jan Lanham

While Dr. Cecil Paul is gone from our midst, the challenge represented by his life remains. My fondest memory of Cecil is of him standing tired, unshaven, and wet, with water dripping from his hat. In his hand a map of the rough Allagash Wilderness of Maine. In the cold half-light of dawn he is framed by the rugged Main mountains and the rough and choppy Chamberlain Lake. We have two days in which to make 48 miles by canoe if we are to meet our outfitter on the banks of the St. John's River on the Canadian Border. Cecil is charting the course.

Dr. Paul's tenure as President of Eastern Nazarene College was too brief. yet, in a short three years, with his hand in the ever-present hand of God, he had begun to chart a new course for the College. Completion of the new Library, under his direction, was the beginning. Standing on the shore of his new challenge, his mission stretched into the horizon.

Cecil has gone home. Looking back on his life, I now realize God has determined for each of us our "four score and seven." Our measure on this earth is not in years, but in the quality of our Christian service in the time God has given. In his 57 years, Dr. Paul lived many lifetimes.

Mayor James A. Sheets

The 1991-1992 academic year was challenging for our E.N.C. community of number of reasons. Throughout that year, President Paul modeled a redemptive number and proactive lifestyle. In the midst of a tough situation, Cecil was sharing with me a number of options of how he could respond to this challenge. He paused for a few moments, and then said, "My deepest desire is to respond as Christ would respond." I was deeply moved by his words. For his words were more than an expression of a deep desire, they expressed how he lived his life. I have found myself reflecting on his words many times, for God invites each of us to respond as Christ would respond.

-Mark Sanford

Throughout my service to other Nazarene Colleges, I had heard of a great psychologist and teacher named "Dr. Cecil Paul." Reputation and character, however, can be two different things. So when he asked me if I would work with him as Academic Dean at E.N.C., I began a great learning adventure. I learned in Dr. Paul that "reputation" plus "character" equals more than the sum of the parts. He had a "reputation" for great energy, for remembering details, for focus on mission. Dr. Paul showed up in my office with a window air-conditioner on the hottest day of the summer; he brought donuts on cold winter mornings for long Administrative Council meetings; he showed me first copies of his latest publication and then asked me highlight faculty scholarship first; he encouraged me to think realistically about tomorrow and to dream creatively about 2000; he asked me to represent him and the College in Japan; he introduced me to Nazarene minority pastors; he supported women in Christian leadership.

His reputation matched his character; his character was greater than his reputation. I am greatly diminished in the tragic loss of Dr. Paul, but his Christian and professional stature make him one of those in the "cloud of witness" who cheer me on to faith and triumph in Christ. My last time to converse with him was outside his office in Gardner Hall on a warm summer early evening before I left for England

To name the funniest moment during my stay at ENC would be virtually impossible. Because in fact, in the dorms, there is always something funny going on. From hall wiffle ball to floor Trivial Pursuit. For an example, I'll refer to Spring of 92 when Kevin Winey, Mark Brown, Eric Hughes, Brad Grinnen, and I did the song Bohemian Rhapsody for the lip sync contest. Talk about funny! Picture five guys in the dorm doing ballet together. We didn't win but by the time we finished I had laughed so hard we didn't care. For my most spiritual moment at E.N.C. I can easily name the incident. Spring of '91 brought Steven Manley to E.N.C. for revival. It was during this time that I accepted my call into Youth Ministry. There is no greater joy than knowing I am doing God's will for my life. I will praise him eternally.

I peutered (this one is for Carla) in Dr. Braaten's Old Testament class. No one could figure out who did it until after class. (Brad)
My most spiritual moments were at the Camping Retreats at Windsor Hills.

As I sit back and try to think of my most embarrassing moment, I remember a certain incident my freshman year. Gretchen Kraner and I had been feeling in a mischievous mood. We wanted to pull a prank but couldn't think of anything. Then we remembered that Brett Wells was working the late shift in Waterston parking lot. We figured if we dressed all in black and put stockings over our heads we would be able to sneak up on him and scare him pretty good. So, we dressed in our "appropriate attire" and set off for our destination. As we were sneaking over there we saw some people coming our way. We panicked wondering how we'd explain our outrageous outfits. We didn't want to get caught or anything. So I looked at Gretchen and said "Kneel down and pretend you're praying." Without even thinking she did and as the people were walking by us I started to pray while I had my hand on her back. It was all we could do to keep from laughing. Because the more we thought about it, the more we realized how ridiculous we looked. Here we are, it's 12:30 a.m., we're dressed all in black, with stockings over our heads, and we're praying. Needless to say, we both almost wet our pants laughing so hard. (Actually one of us did, but I won't mention who it was).

Thinking back over the years I have spent here at ENC, my mind quickly filled with many fun, exciting, challenging, and rewarding memories. When I look at myself and see the changes that have occurred since my freshman year in my attitudes, mind sets, and life-style, I am overwhelmed as to how much I have learned and how extensively I have grown. If it were not for the guidance of several caring professors, the support of many cherished friends, and the constant love from my parents and family, my years here at ENC would not have been as productive and rewarding as they have been. My praise and thanks is to the Lord for His constant faithfulness and steadfast love. During the difficult stressful days and weeks, that seemed ever so long, as well as during the fun times with friends, the Lord never ceased to show me this great love and never stopped challenging me to be a better person IN Him. Because of the things I have learned at college, I am confident knowing that the Lord will carry out His will in my life and will continue to be faithful throughout the upcoming years, whatever they may hold.

"Do you not know that in a race all the runners run, but only one gets the prize? Run in such a way as to get the prize . . . Therefore I do not run like a man running aimlessly; I do not fight like a man beating air. No, I beat my body and make it my slave so that after I have preached to others, I myself will not be disqualified for the prize." Corinthians 9:24, 26-27

Youth Ministry and Christian Education-

In traveling with Onesimus this past summer, I was doing a skit on a three foot high stage (platform) I was supposed to slip when I was climbing the mountain, but in the process I fell of the stage. To top it off, the men in the back of the church started to come forward to see if I was ok. I didn't want them to "further" interrupt the skit, so my immediate response was "Oh, that was supposed to happen". (I meant the fall, but not the fall off the stage)

Probably one of my most spiritual "moments" while attending ENC was during J-term of my sophomore year taking Moving to Personhood. We had to start, continue, and journal bout a discipline or habit we wanted to start and I decided to give the Lord an hour of uninterrupted time -through reflection, prayer, bible reading, and silence. When we take time to listen, we can really hear God's voice -and how exciting it is to have him gently but firmly lead and guide in the process of transforming us into his likeness.

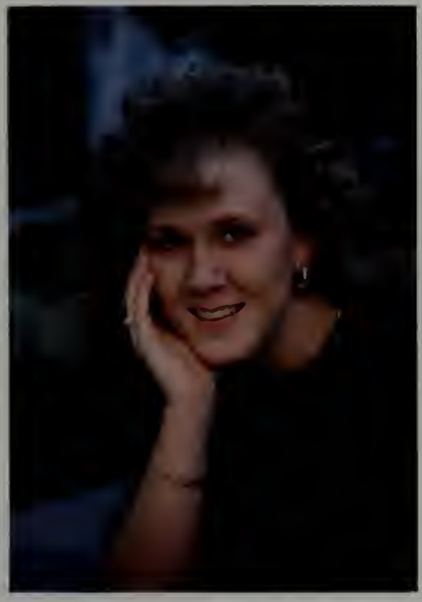
On September 5th, 1992 at 11:01 p.m., God gave me the most wonderful gift. Since then, he has taught me an infinite number of lessons and shown me just as many miracles. I have learned the value of a human life. I have learned (however slowly) the patience to cope with life's little surprises ... everyday brings new ones. I have learned that love can warm any heart. I have learned to cherish each day that I am here on earth, for time moves so quickly. I have learned that not everyone is perfect (especially at 2:00 a.m.). I have learned that the smallest things in life can be the most beautiful. Above all, I have learned how precious my son is, and I thank God every day for sacrificing His to give me life. -Julie Detwiler



My most embarrassing moment happened my sophomore year after a girls open house. Just for a little background - over the past few years a 12 foot long stuffed snake had been circulating though Spange and Willie and on this particular night it ended up on our floor. All of the girls on my floor were being rowdy and obnoxious and someone came up with the idea that it would be funny to "repel" down the building on the snake. I was volunteered. We all went to the stairwell where the windows face the student center in Willie and I climbed out the windowsill of the first floor. I was hanging outside of the building, holding on to the snake with both hands. Before I had a chance to begin repelling, however, HeeSung and Rob Hill ran up behind me and pulled my shorts down. By this time about 30 guys had gathered around because Open House had just ended. To make it worse, I hadn't done laundry in a while and I was down to the worst possible pair of underwear to be wearing in this situation -hot pink with "bloomies" written across the back. So as everyone laughed I continued to hang there, exposing my rear end until finally Laura Bish, who was inside the building, grabbed me by my shirts and pulled me in the window. I was totally humiliated, but I'm sure the audience that had gathered got a pretty good laugh!! -Christy Brown

There is no doubt in my mind concerning ho has influenced me the most at ENC. Dr. lcCormick has taught me so much about the WESOME and GRACIOUS God that we serve. lany days I would walk out of his class so xcited and overwhelmed with God's love for ıe. My heart was challenged to serve God out f love for him and not just by works. I have ɔme to understand that I can do nothing apart om God's grace. I can only respond to Christ ecause he first reached out to me. Thank you r. McCormick for letting God use you. I can ay that because of the way your cared to teach ıe truth, I have found a new and beautiful eedom in my walk with Christ! Phil. 1:3

The international Students have inspired me the most while at ENC. It would take too long to name them all, but I thank each of them for being such a special part of my life. Their hard work and dedication to their schoolwork has challenged me. My spiritual understanding has been enriched by many of our conversations. I have been encouraged by their friendship and personal interest in my life. I thank them for aiding in broadening my understanding of the world. From them, I have learned that even through our cultures may be different, we all share the desire for friendship and love. I have come to believe that through loving others, the barriers of culture, life style, and personality can be overcome.

LORI BEILER

Since I have been to ENC, many individuals have deeply touched my life and have been a tremendous inspiration spiritually as well as academically. However, I would like to acknowledge two professors who have truly demonstrated to me not only rigorous disciplines within the classroom, but who themselves molded a life consistent to their teachings. It was Dr. Steve McCormick and Professor Tim Shetler who integrated what they taught into a life-style of Christ-likeness. Though they always had responsibilities, they never once hesitated to let their students know that they were more important than their own demanding schedule. Most of all, thought, they inspired me by not being afraid to reveal how "human" they really were, and by acknowledged God's grace as their inspiration and sustaining power. Philippians 1:3-6 and 9-11

The one person who has inspired me the most over the past 3 ½ years has been Mrs. Lois Knox. Mrs. Knox has been more than a professor to me. She has been a Christian Mentor and also a good friend. Through trials of her own, Mrs. Knox has lived out the example of how we must lean on Jesus. No matter what may happen to us, no burden is too great for Jesus to bear. Thank-you Mrs. Knox.

Four years ago, our Freshman Council asked Dr. James R. Cameron to serve as our advisor. Since then, I've had the pleasure of serving # years with on that council, and of sitting under him in numerous history and political science classes. Dr. Cameron has taught

There are probably two people that ad a major impact on me and on my fe while here at ENC. One of them I robably respect more than anyone se I met here and the other one I feel love with. Those people are Brad adgerow and Tanya Ayres.

Brad was a great influence on me. e was a well respected by students nd faculty. He was a fun person, yet responsible student. He kept a good alance in his life. I got on Brad's erves a lot and I am not sure he ever new how much of an impact he had n my life. I hope that I have been as ise in my decisions and how I lived y life while I was here as he seemed o have been.

I met Tanya the summer between y freshman and sophomore year. We tarted dating in September of my ophomore year and we are now on ur way to happily ever after. No one as ever shown as much concern for hat I did. No one ever supported me e way she did (except mom & dad). he is intelligent, caring, thoughtful, ardworking, and beautiful. I knew ithin two months of dating that I anted to spend the rest of my life ith her. She is there for me in all my efeats as well as my victories. She is here when I need her and always gives e space. She is happy when I am appy and always there if I need a oulder to cry on. She is my every- ing. I am not sure if I would be where am now it if wasn't for her support. I m looking forward to spending my life ith her.

I do not care if you think I am sappy. do admire these two people and nowing them has made a difference my life. I also want to thank all of my ther friends who have been there with e along the way. Thanks.

KIPP CALDWELL

The people that have inspired me the most during my college career, as well as in my whole life, are my parents. I look at my Father and see a man that dedicated his whole life to his children. In athletics, Dad would do anything for me. I specifically remember him giving up his Saturdays so that I could participate in a foul shooting contest two hours away. My Mothers dedication was similar even though she "couldn't give a hoot about basketball", Mom would spend hours going over homework and papers with me. My parents sacrificed so that their children could have more. Many of you witnessed my parents hard work when they organized the treasure hunt this year. Most importantly, however, through their kind, gentle, and servant-like attitudes, Mom and Dad exemplifies Christ. I have always believed that if I could even be a half of what my parents were, I would still be a good father. Thanks Mom and Dad for everything!

ROBERT DAILEY

Various faculty members have played a key role in my intellectual and spiritual development over the past four years at ENC. Each has challenged and inspired me in different ways and in different situations and I am immensely grateful to them for this. However, I would like to especially thank my advisor, Dr. Lowell Hall, for helping me to grow as a person, a scientist, and a Christian. His example and commitment to me as his student have meant a lot to me during these college years.

KRISTIN I. FIACCO

JULIE L. DETWILER

If, among the many people that you encounter in your lifetime, you find someone who inspires you, consider yourself lucky. It is not often that a person comes along who is extraordinary in this capacity-who is supportive through any trial, who possesses the character to earn respect through their actions, who has worked diligently and accomplished much in their education and career, who stands firmly in their beliefs, who loves unconditionally, who gives selflessly to help others, and who encourages your to move ahead when you feel like giving up. I did not have to look far to find my inspiration. For me, this someone has been with me all along.

Thanks Mom - I love you.

BETH DYMENT

There have been 3 artists who have contributed to the canvas of Beth Dyment these last four years: Norene Fiacco, Karl Giberson, and Mark Sanford. Professor Fiacco has instilled within me a dream. It was in her saying she had found her niche (in teaching) when I set on my quest. And now, two years later, I find myself 180 degrees from where I began. I, too, have developed a love for teaching. I just hope my students enjoy me as much as I've enjoyed her. Karl Giberson has challenged me intellectually. I would have left ENC lacking the cohesion by which everything is united. Karl forced me to stop looking at my GPA and start looking at how much I retained. Finally, Mark Sanford is one of the few people who points you toward the Crown of tomorrow and Away from the guilt of yesterday. His prayers and support have meant so much. All of you have added to this painting - each with your own colorful flair. Thank you. For what you have given me is priceless! Phil. 1:3-11

JENNIFER FISH

The people who most inspired me at ENC were my rofessors, parents, and Matthew Waterman. Although do not have room to mention them all by name, I am hankful for specific people in the departments of cience, English, Religion, Social Work, Music, and Mathematics who have inspired me to grow intellectu- lly, emotionally, and spiritually. I am especially thank- ul for my Biology professors Dan Shea, Kathy rederich, and Phil McLaren. These wonderful people ave expressed a genuine interest in ne as a person and have encouraged nd challenged me to realize my reams and potential. My mother and ather have served as sources of inspi- ation throughout my life and particu- arly in college. I am so fortunate to ave such loving and supportive par- nts. Most of my inspiration has come rom Matt, my fiance and best friend. lis love, support and encouragement ave been invaluable these past four ears. I thank God for the wonderful eople He has put into my life.

BRIAN MASSEY

Dr. McCormick stands out in my mind as being especially influential to me both intellectually and spiritually. His sincere commitment to God and his keen insight will doubtlessly continue to inspire me long after I have left ENC.

I lift my eyes to the hills-where does my help come fro?
My help comes from the Lord,
the Maker of Heaven and Earth.
Psalm 121:1-2

CASEY MOORE

When I think back over the four years that I have been here at ENC, many people who have influenced me in significant ways come to mind. However, the top two individuals on my long list of people would definitely be Professor Tim Shetler and Tanya Ayres. First, during the two years that I have been a a member of A Cappella Choir I am continuously amazed at Prof. Shetler's constant willingness to follow the leading of the Spirit and to trust God in all circumstances of life. His consistent example in this way had truly helped me in my spiritual walk! Second, Tanya has helped me to understanding the meaning of true "friendship". In spite of our different personalities and the different perspectives that Tanya and I have on many things, we have been able to able to share these differences when faced with various issues over the years. As a result, I think we have been able to help each other become better and stronger individuals, which is what friendship is all about. My experience at ENC has been absolutely incredible and I thank God for Prof. Shetler and for Tanya, as well as the many other's who have influenced me during these four years.

JANELLE NIELSON

I pray that someday the Lord will allow you all to see the way in which He was able to use you to play such a large role in shaping me into the person He wants me to be. "Thank you for giving to the Lord. I am a life that was changed."

RYAN SMITH

The four years I've spent at ENC truly have been life-changing. Looking back at the person I was in the fall of 1989, I am amazed at how much I have grown in such a short period of time. I attribute that growth to my constant companion, my Saviour Jesus Christ. To Him I give thanks for the many friendships with both faculty and peers that I have been blessed with, for it is through others that we see our Lord. I have seen so much of Him at ENC. Thank you all!!

DEANNA THULIN

There are many people at ENC who ha been inspiring for me. Yet, the person w touched my spirit the most would have to the late Dr. Cecil Paul. He was one who kn how to turn dreams and visions into rea ties. He fought for tolerance not because would make life easier, but because he lov the values that each individual can give friends and society. As I get older I fi myself wondering more and more how ma people Christians as well, genuinely ha such desires. It was a privilege to have go to ENC at a time when I could know president who proved to me that he felt su things so deeply and truthfully.

MATTHEW WATERMAN

re are many people who have been inspirational to me at ENC. ea has given me excellent advice, both academic and personal, gh out my four years. Dr's Frederich have been inspirational odels for my living a Christian life, now and in the future. Dr. en taught me that life need not be serious all the time through nning wit and knack for telling a good story. Dr. McCormick has ed me to delve deeper into theology and Dr. Giberson has joined ith my interest in science and the religious implications the in. Hall and Stark have demonstrated that chemistry need not be letter word for biology majors and Dr. Free put the "phun" n physics. I owe most of my inspirations to Jennifer, who not managed to win my heart, but taught me by example that hard and studying are not as terrible as I once thought.

KEVIN WINEY

When I first arrived at ENC I wasn't positive that this is where God wanted me to be. Looking back over the four years that I have spent here, I now can understand why God included ENC in my life. This school and the people that are involved with it have a remarkable effect to my growth spiritually and in maturity and discipline. Inspiration has come not from simply one person or event, but from a combinations of teachers, advisors, church services, ministries, students, and most of all friends. The most profound influence on me has been from viewing those students and friends that place living for Christ as more important than education or anything else in their lives. Those individuals who are uncompromising and actually live what they believe have been an excellent example for me to continually strive to do God's will in my life.

UNDERCLASS

FRESHMAN CLASS

As freshman we came to Eastern Nazarene Colleg not quite knowing what to expect. Orientation familia ized us with each other, but we still had a lot to lear about college life.

We learned the importance of daily class attendanc and soon discovered that "all-nighters" and eigh o'clock classes do not mix. We found out that mone does not grow on trees and sometimes we had to sa "no"to activities in which we really wanted to partici pate. We learned that although E.N.C. offers many pro grams to help us develop and grow, we could not rea the benefits unless we got involved and participatec As freshman at E.N.C. we understood that college lif required much more independence than many of u were used to. We had to take on responsibilities tha we never anticipated.

As a freshman class council member, I soon discov ered that not only did we have so much to learn abou college life personally, but we also had a lot to lear about being freshman in a position of leadership. Ev erything was all so foreign and unfamiliar. So man times upperclassmen would tell us that freshma council had it the hardest, but somehow we managec to pull everything off.

The blood drives, movie night, the urkish prison, decorating the student enter, selling nights ... so much to o yet so little experience. As fresh- an we did not always know what was est to do but, "if at first you don't ucceed, try, try again."

Our class members were always illing to help out, and as council embers we did our best to please ur class and the student body as a hole. Thanks to the advise of StuCo nd upperclass council members, ombined with our thoughts, we nded up having very successful vents and a very successful first year.

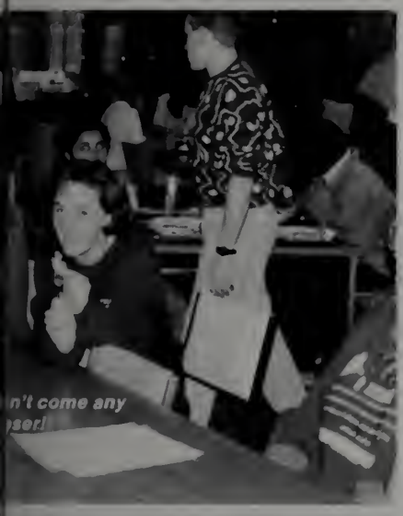
My freshman exper ence here at Easter Nazarene College ha been a wonderful time growth for me. Never be fore in my educatio have I been surrounde by so many students an professors who love th Lord as openly as ou here at E.N.C. It ha been a great time of as surance for me tha there really are brothe and sisters out ther who share in the sam joy and hope in which share. It is one thing t learn in a cold, worldl environment wher shady philosophy weak religion are taugh it is an entirely differe thing to learn in an env ronment where the lov



f Christ reigns in the class-oom. Part of what has made ny freshman year at E.N.C. o special is the warmth & ove so openly displayed in ur great community of Cru-aders. It is truly evident that Christ's glorious hand is at ork here at E.N.C. & that *my riends, has made all the dif-erence in the world! JUNIOR CLASS

"Pizza, pizza . . . buy a pizza!"
"Anyone for rice-crispy treats? They're only two fo dollar . . . try 'em, I bet you'll love 'em!!"Throughout course of the year, this was the expected, and son times annoying yell of the Junior Class Officers ev Sunday and Tuesday night.

Yes, the Junior/Senior was the objective behind of the fundraisers and activities. It was the major ev that dominated our thoughts and our meetings, I more importantly, we knew that our turnout of this s cial occasion would either "make or break us". T question, "how are we going to pull this one off?", ten ran through our minds. The answer still remain mystery. However, with the help and encouragem from other members of the class, we took one step a time and gave it our best shot.

I can still remember the excitement of our freshm year. Known as the "rowdy under classmen", we vaded E.N.C. with full force sometimes leaving resp for authority, property, and - believe it nor not - facul hanging somewhere. Yep - were "mature" college s dents on a quest for adventure. Things have calme little since the good old days. We have become m responsible and mature and have a greater regard our friendships, our school and of course, the world live in.

When we think about our class, a few ords come to mind ... caring, sharing, ncouraging and loyal. Although we have een looked down upon at times in our ears at E.N.C., our class shares some very ecial qualities with each other. God has ven us the unique ability to love one an- her, to share both in the joys and the sor- ws and to keep pressing one another on wards the things that He has in store for .

No, we have not lost our vital sense of ad- nture. We still like to have our share of n and enjoy being crazy at times. We ve many memories that will always be ecial and we will always cherish and ld on to them!

"Get a little closer, Don' shy"

Hmm -Life at E.N.C.? What a tough question! Th are so many different aspects of life at E.N.C., it's h to find a point a point to start at. I guess I'll start fr one of the biggest aspects (at least it is for me!) wh is the "SOCIAL LIFE." This is the best! On almost given night you can find people hanging around - ing social! There's always people in the dugout eat food and chatting' with friends, or, right next doo the fishbowl, there are people playing some kinc cards or other games and periodically a bunch of p ple get together and watch a movie -like "Bambi" "Pinnochio" nothing above a "G" rating, of course. can always find someone in the gym playing bask ball, volleyball, soccer, or "pumping some iron" to come big and strong like Hanz and Franz!

We can't forget the "biggest" social place? You it! A million dollar lounge (o.k., it's the library!) Wh great place to socialize.

Spange and Munro Parlors are big for some of yo mostly couples, studying couples, of course.

ip and Brad greet students as they board he Spirit of Boston.

Ohhh, let's see? ACADEMIC LIFE unds good. Though I've never been anothe college, I would say that s academic program is one of the st. Why? well, first of all, the profs awesome - yeah, some are tough so is life. They all seem to really e for us students. Most, if not all, Christians what a plus! It helps so ch in having that special bond in rist. Just think, getting our degrees graduation and knowing that we ve the potential for a greater future e to E.N.C. written on the diploma. kes me think how much this school lly offers. As far as academics go, can't forget about our new library. t only is it a social place but it's a ce to enrich our studies. Wow! ere's so much to offer microfiche d film, and books upon books. The .F.T. is also continuing to improve d helping students in their studies. I.C. is certainly continuing it's aca- mic excellE.N.C.e.

The financial life? (Or lack there of) 's forget about this one - we all ow what's up with finances, right?

O.K. - lastly, and most importantly, SPIRITUAL LIFE. There are so

EASTERN NAZARENE COLLEGE

To the Members of the Class of 1993:

I'm delighted to have the opportunity to congratulate you on your graduation from Eastern Nazarene College, but I'm sorry that Dr. Cecil Paul was not here to celebrate this moment with you.

In a very real sense, the Class of 1993 is Dr. Cecil Paul's class. Many of you were Freshmen when Dr. Paul became the president. He was coming to grips with the joys and trials of the presidency, while you were trying to figure out where your classes were meeting and what your major should be. In essence, you were freshmen together.

You seniors had the task of breaking in another freshman president, and though I can take no credit for how well you have turned out, I'm proud to have shared one year with you here at ENC. I have had contact with many classes of students at a number of institutions, but your student leadership, and your student body president, Janelle Nielson, are as sensitive and fine as any I have had the privilege of working with. You seem to have absorbed some of the fine qualities of the president who led ENC during most of your time here.

And now you have graduated, and in a sense so has Dr. Paul. He served with vigor and compassion. He passionately believed in Christian service and outreach to the community. He literally spent himself in service to Eastern Nazarene College, as did his wife Judy.

But I am convinced that Dr. Paul has left his mark not just on this institution, but on you, the graduates of 1993. He cared about ENC, but he never forgot that ENC's sole reason to exist is to serve students. He wanted to provide a quality education in a context which nurtured spiritual values. He modeled those values. As a gifted counselor, his compassion and investment in the lives of students and colleagues alike, is a legacy which many will cherish as long as they live.

So when you remember ENC, reminisce about the many good times you have had here. The fun in the dorms, the basketball games, the chapels, the drama productions, the talks with faculty, Fall in New England, and those special friends that came your way. But also remember Dr. Paul, but more importantly remember that One whom he served so faithfully.

I want to leave you with a challenge, one that my predecessor would likely have given you had he not been taken suddenly from you. But even his passing bears witness to the truth of convictions which he so often expressed. He loved to remind those around him that our time on this earth is indeed short. Therefore, he would insist, we ought to emulate John Wesley who said: "My part is to improve the present moment!"

May each of you find the center of God's will for your life and find that peace which can only come from faithfully striving, with humor and divine confidence, "to improve the present moment." May God richly bless each of you.

President and Mrs. Kent R. Hill

As the school mourned the sudden loss of President Paul in August, the search began for someone to fill the very large shoes he had left. Kent R. Hill was chosen as just the man for the job. Coming to ENC meant leaving Washington, D.C., where Dr. Hill was the President of the Institute for Religion and Democracy. In late January, however, with a house ready to move into, the Hills began life as a full-time part of the ENC family. Dr. Hill's commitment to Holiness higher education and his experience in academics and at other Nazarene colleges will serve him well in his tenure as President.

Religion And Philosophy

At an institution dedicated to holiness higher education, a strong religion department is essential. With high percentage of students from the department ng into full-time Christian service, the department ers a variety of concentrations and majors: Preminary, Ordination, Christian Education, and uth Ministry. Jeff Barker, Chad Crofford, Chris lis, Ted MacNeil, David Porter, and Stuart Washton are concentrating on preparing for further dy in seminary. Fred Harrington and Deborah nion, who chose to take the Ordination route, both ve pastoral experience. Lori Beiler, Kerri Alder, ristina Couch, Wanda Gailey, Tracy MacDonald, bbie MacPherson, Rick Smith, and Dave Thornhill l be working with youth in either Christian Education or Youth Ministry.

The Music Department faculty is interested in providing superior training for those students with musical talent, who are interested in either teaching or in performing, especially in a church setting. Jacki Wallis is graduating with a Music Education degree; Elina Yung is concentrating in Music Performance. The departments purpose, however, is broader than just preparing music majors to be educators and/or musicians: the faculty hopes to give all students an increased awareness, understanding, and appreciation of music through the ensembles, private instruction in voice and instruments, and the choral groups

Foreign Languages

Foreign languages offer an opportunity to be a part of another culture, to be an 'insider' in foreign land. Sandra Burgos and Evelyn Stonesifer, Both majoring in Spanish, will be able to communicate with those who speak the largest growing language group in America. Sandy spent time in translating and Eve's overseas experience have given them the practical groundwork to feel comfortable in whichever part of the world they choose to make use of their language skills.

English

The English department seeks to enable its students to be able to communicate effectively, to think critically, and to enable them to appreciate the great heritage of our English language and literature. The study of writing and literature broadens the sympathy for those who do not share our culture but do share our world. While many English majors will go on to careers in teaching, the fields open to those skilled in writing and thinking are many. Chris Briggs, Jim Druart, Beth Dyment, Kristin Fiacco, Juliana Kolson, Jeanine LaValley, Merilyn Miller, Danyelle Pearson, Tim Nelson, Janelle Neilson, Will Spotts, Rhonda Armstrong, and Courtney Mann have a world of opportunities waiting for them.

Sociology

The department of Sociology provides it students with an understanding of how society affects the beliefs and behaviors of people and their social institutions. In addition to obtaining an understanding of how the scientific method is applied to the study of human behavior from a social science perspective, the faculty concentrates on helping the students establish a theoretical framework for evaluating and understanding some of the social institutions, processes, and problems of American society. Concentrations in Urban Ministry (a dual major in Sociology and Religion), Psychology and Sociology, or Anthropology are offered. Lisa Cassar, Merry McGough, and Dawn-Marie Milton are the senior Sociology majors in 1993. The entire department mourned the loss of senior Ric D'Angelo this past fall.

Social Work

Social Work seeks to bring Christ's love into the practical realm of everyday life. By teaching students the concepts and skills for developing an understanding of the human condition from a Christian frame of reference, the department prepares students for employment in social work with individuals, groups, and communities representing geographic and socio-cultural diversity by providing the professional foundation required for generalist practice. This is the program's principle educational objective. Christy Brown, Gretchen Kraner, Stacey Reed, and Carolyn Stecher have all completed not only rigorous course work, but also an intensive practicum in which they gained valuable field experience.

Soccer

Success! For the first time since 1980 (9-8-0), an Eastern Nazarene College Men's Soccer Team has achieved a winning season! This year's Crusader Team finished the 1992 season at 10-9-1.

Leading the way this year once again was sophomore scoring sensation Rob Hutchison of Weymouth, MA. "Hutch" led the team with 22 goals and 5 assists for 49 points. He is quickly advancing toward becoming Eastern Nazarene's all time leading scorer. That honor is held by Rob's high school coach, and ENC grad ('73) Steve Shoff, who scored 93 goals in his four years as a Crusader soccer player.

Sophomore Eric Hughes of Bethel Park, PA made his mark this year as ENC's dominant midfield player. His strong defensive effort coupled with the 6 goals and 8 assists drew much attention from opposing players and coaches. From Pembroke, MA, sophomore goalkeeper Dan Collins carried the lead in goal playing in 17 games and held a 2.36 goals against average. He was backed up by freshmen Todd Henderson of Derby, NY. A welcome sight this year was the quality of play from freshmen Steve Anderson of Braintree, Ma, Jose' Delgado of Rumford, RI and Jason Barry of Pembroke, MA. They certainly will be making a positive impact on the future of ENC soccer.

It is with some sadness that ENC says goodbye to its 2 graduating seniors. Mark Brown of Chesapeake, VA, and Tom Fuller of Weymouth, MA, have both finished outstanding careers as Crusader soccer players; Brown as a 4 year starter, and Fuller as a top scorer and co-captain.

Women's Tennis

The Women's Tennis Team started the process of rebuilding an outstanding program. The loss of 4 of the top 6 players from the previous year's successful campaign left the Crusaders with a young and inexperienced squad. Senior Casey Moore was again the number 1 singles player and finished with an 8-7 record over all. Senior Lori Beiler moved up form six singles to 2nd singles and was 6-5 before a knee injury ended her season prematurely. Other highlights for this year's team included their fourth place finish in the Commonwealth Coast Conference Tournament and the second place finish of Monique Suri and Heather Angell in the doubles bracket of that same tournament.

Cross Country

The 1992 Cross Country Season has many highlights. With only two returners from the previous season our newcomers came in and performed very well. Each individual worked hard and represented Eastern Nazarene College in a positive way at each meet.

The Men proved to be strong competitors. Micah Kidney led the men this year. Micah is a strong runner who has yet to tap into his potential. Great things can be expected from him in the seasons to come. Chris Kidney, a junior and the team captain, ran through a season plagued by injuries. Chris has a mental toughness that makes him a good runner. That same mental toughness enabled him to continue through the season despite disappointing set backs due to injury. Dan Gilmore was the newcomer to the team. Dan came in and worked very hard and proved he has the ability to become a very competitive runner for the Crusaders.

The Crusader Ladies were just as impressive this year. Freshman Carol Hall and Laura Thornhill make up the team. Carol Hall quickly became a factor at each meet. She consistently finished in the front pack and picked up 2nd place in a strong field of runners at St. Joseph's in Maine. Laura Thornhill improved more in two weeks than most do in two years. After a disappointing finish at Bryant College, Laura went right to work. She cut 7 minutes off her previous race and continued to improve all season.

Volleyball

The 1992-93 Women's Volleyball Team began the season with six out of ten new players. With the addition of so many new players, it was destined to be a rebuilding year. We spent the first half of the year learning a new system and trying to gel as a team. With a great deal of hard work, the team saw a few early wins, some heartbreaking losses, and a year end victory over a team which beat us at the beginning of the season. Sophomore Rebecca Milller led the team once again with a 98% serving. Newcomer Cynthia Cast was the block leader and Sophomore Kim Lahr was the team's most consistent serve receiver. The setting was split between first year players Stacia Shute and Kim Trout who did a good job at directing a young team and filled in as productive off-hand hitters. Junior captain Julie Stahlsmith added strong leadership along with her hard hitting. Sophomore Kristen Keen assumed the seventh player role, playing in whatever position was necessary and did an admirable job. Although, Freshmen Leigh Killberg and Joy Phillips and Sophomore Kristen Goding saw limited playing time, they worked hard in practice to learn our system and showed a great deal of improvement. With everyone returning and the addition of a few players, next year's team looks to improve this year's record.

Men's Basketball

The 1992-1993 Men's Basketball Team was outstanding in many areas.

The team's 19-7 record was their best record in 17 years and their sixth best ever at ENC. The Crusaders won their first ever Commonwealth Coast Championship and finished ninth inthe nation defensively for NCAA Division III schools.

The Team was led in scoring and rebounding by first team all conference center, Jeff Seabron.

Senior forward Eric Heizer joined the 1000 points club at ENC finishing with 1009 total points over his four years. The commonwealth Coast Conference's John Havliceck Award went to senior forward Kipp Caldwell. The Crusaders were also led by senior Jeff Barker, the teams defensive ace, and senior Scott Higgins who was the leading scorer for the Crusaders.

Cheerleading

Well, another successful cheerleading season has come to an end. This season was particularly long — we had try-outs in late September and cheered until the end of February (the basketball team sure gave us something to cheer about). This year's squad was probably the most talented and exciting to watch in ENC's history. This talent, however, was not all natural. A large part of it resulted from practicing four nights a week for two hours each night. Our diligent and faithful practices lead to some of the exciting pyramids you saw during half-time. We certainly enjoyed performing them as much as you enjoyed seeing them! The highlight of our long season was participating in The King's Tournament. Our King's Routine has always been a hit and it gets better every year.

Unfortunately, ENC will not be participating in the tournament next year but don't worry we'll put a routine together anyway! It may not be what you expect though — some new cheerleading rules will preclude us from doing many of the pyramids you might expect to see, but we'll do our best! Thanks in advance for your continued support.

Women's Basketball

The 1992-93 Women's Basketball team entered its first year of Commonwealth Coast Conference play with realistic expectations. Coaches Tom Dagley and Amy Dyment knew they had a young squad, starting two freshmen and two sophomores (along with senior Amy Green). After a rough start, the team started playing well together and gave some of the top teams competitive games that they were not expecting. They ended with a 4-10 conference record and a 6th place finish, unsatisfying but promising. The team highlight was a come-from-behind victory at perennial power Salve Regina, proving to the players that the next step to the first division was in reach.

Individual highlights included the play of sophomore guard Darcy DiFrederico, averaging a team high 12.0 points a game, and proving herself to be a player to watch in the CCC. Freshman center Amy Cunningham had a 11.5 ppg average and a league leading 10.5 rebounds per game. Amy was also named CCC rookie of the week 3 times. Tammy Swartzlander, a freshman guard, was also a league leader with 4.1 assists per game. Senior captain Amy Green, (10.4 ppg, 9.0 rpg) showed herself to be a real team leader, giving much needed leadership to the younger players.

The '92-'93 team was a very enjoyable team to coach. The women showed great determination, playing hard every game. They also were a pleasure off the court, representing ENC in a highly respectful, Biblical manner. ENC should be very proud of the spiritual character, conduct, and growth of the players/students on this team.

The Rockford Peaches they aren't, but ENC Women's Softball Team has a few bright spots. Seeing as how the team is very young and mostly inexperienced, the only way to go from here is up! Bad weather and scarce numbers added to the rough season. With only two returning players, The Lady Crusaders had a tough time getting they season underway. Early in the season, Coach Joe Cotton stated, "We're just here for sun and fun; anything else (meaning a win) is a bonus!" He got his bonus alright, when ENC swept Suffolk in a Double Header. On being inexperienced as a team, Captain/short-stop-Swartzy said "At first it was hard to deal with, but we all just relaxed and decided to have fun regardless."

Coach Cotton hopes for a better season next year, maybe Spring Break in Florida! Lets wish them luck!

Baseball

This Baseball season will probably be remembered as the season that almost never was. Considering the first nine games of the season were either canceled or postponed due to snow and rain, it's a wonder that we ever played a game. Of course, once we started playing ball, it seemed like we were playing every day. For instance, in our first week we played single games on Monday and Tuesday, a double header on Wednesday and a double header on Saturday. So we were playing a lot of games in a short amount of time which really takes a toll on arms.

The Crusaders were lead this year by Seniors Eric Heizer, Kipp Caldwell, and Doug Mann. Eric lead the team last year in most hitting categories and continued to do so this year. He also anchored the first base corner with stellar defense. Kipp broke out of an early season slump to post his most impressive statistics as a Crusader and also contributed his consistent play at the "hot" corner (third base for you non-baseball types). Doug, the only four year Senior and starter, finished his career with the consistent pitching he displayed last year. He also increased his run production this year and posted his best hitting statistics as a Crusader.

The Crusaders were also led by Co-Captians Jacob Hart and Mike Malba. Jacob was the number one starter for a Crusaders pitching staff that was as solid and deep as it's been in years. He also led the team in every offensive category as he finished with an impressive .473 batting average. Mike was the heart and soul of our defense this year at shortstop and also contributed with his bat as our lead off hitter.

Coach Jack Willy

Returning starters from last years team that made an impact were Aaron Hassinger, who made good switch from second to catcher, and Dan Jozefik, who hit and pitched very well. Other players for this year were Craig Taylor, Mark Guay, Tobin Felter, Aaron Pluff, Mike Thibeau, Mike "Hose" Deluise, Micah "Shamp" Kidney, and Steve Beiler.

Sigma

Sigma is known as the society with: Loyalty, Involvement, and Faithfulness. Despite being one of the smallest societies, Sigma is a fast, growing, enthusiastic society reaching goals for the future.

This year Sigma placed second in soccer, and is now going into the basketball play-offs in first place. The sports teams are rapidly improving and are a force to be reckoned with.

Sigma is also very excited about getting Black and Red t-shirts which will boost morale over the top and make Sigma the most visible Society on campus.

Sigma's theme verse is 1 Corinthians 9:24, w states, "Know ye not that they w run in a race run all, but one rec the prize? So run, that ye may ob Sigma is the society with life, an are running the race!

Kappa

Kappa's year may not have started off so hot at the Society Break-out, but their enthusiasm was not to be matched by any other. We managed to scrape up enough spirit to participate in all events and excell specifically in basketball. One disappointment to our society was not having volleyball which would have put us ahead of the rest without a doubt. The council worked hard at spirit and participation, giving all members a chance to have some extracurricular fun. I think all who sacrificed for Kappa society are proud to say they are more than just E. N. C. Crusaders, they are inside competitors. We hope to continue our highly involved spirit next year. Thanks to all Society members who gave their all for Kappa!!!

Delta

Delta Society! That name makes me well up with pride. It makes me happy, it brings a tear to my eye.

Yes, I am proud to be a Delta Tiger. Who wouldn't be? Ever since I was young, my mother had hopes and dreams that I would be a somebody. Not in her wildest dreams did she think her little boy would ever reach such a prestigious station in life as to be affiliated with the Delta society, the coolest society in the Northeast. By signing up with Delta, I fulfilled a dream of mine and my mother's. Every time a freshman boy or girl signs up with Delta a mother cries with joy because her child is somebody. This year in Delta started on Rush Night with many perspective sign-ups. Even as lowly freshmen they knew what was right and what would make them popular. We had a good showing during soccer season loosing only the games we didn't feel like playing because we simply got bored beating everyone. Breakout was fun too. It was just a non-stop party with Delta spirit oozing out over the gym floor. Who could forget Buck-Buck?? Basically, Delta dominates in everything it wants to, but we play fair and give the other guys a chance out of Christian spirit. GO DELTA!!!

Zeta

This year Zeta won a major feat at registration by tripling it's membership. They managed to pull together a soccer team big enough to play and came out on top. Next year, with the same vigor that has driven us through this year, we will strive to put our best foot forward and win over all societies. May ZETA spirit live on!!

A Capella

Professor Shetler jumps up on the piano bench, leans forward, and claps to the rhythm of the song for the Choir. He repeats the words, enunciating, and growing over the parts until each member feels comfortable and confident with the piece. Jumping off the bench, he asks the Chaplains to lead in a devotional of prayer, testimony, encouragement, and love. It is a peaceful scene now, with each person quiet and reflecting on God's and grace.

It is a rehearsal of the A Capella Choir, a group of singers and musicians all working together to praise the Lord in song. The group is serious about music and enjoys time spent lifting God up with their voices.

The Choir rehearses four days a week and performs at least once a month. They are dedicated to each other and their goal of worship.

Although the Choir works hard, Prof. Shetler adds humor to rehearsals concentrating on the music and on Professor Shetler was an awesome experience for all, and one that will be remembered forever.

The A Capella Choir is an exciting and challenging group to be a part of. For between the classes, homework, stress, and hardships of life, it is thrilling to seek refuge in the phrases poetry of music.

In the silence of a blackened auditorium filled with E. N. C. students and faculty, the sound of a faint pitch can be heard. After a brief moment of silence, an upward sweep of the conductors hand signals. A group of 16 well-dressed individuals begin to sing, their faces seen only through the dim glow of candlelight. Immediately their voices blend, filling the room with joyous strains of perfect harmony.

As you may have already guessed, the scene described is that of the traditional E. N. C. Candlelight Chapel. But just who are these remarkably talented individuals? Allow me to introduce you to the Eastern Nazarene College Madrigal Singers. Under the direction of Prof. Shetler, Madrigals is a group of students who are chosen from the A Capella Choir. They are bonded together by a common interest in music, singing, and serving God.

Hours of rehearsal, dedicated practice and faithful commitment have all attributed to the success of the Madrigals. It is not uncommon to hear any given member singing in the student center, the cafeteria, or even on the "T". It is clear to see that their love of music extends far beyond Cove Rehearsal Room.

Association of Woman Students

This year's council (President: Jenn Fish, Vice President: Erica Justice, Treasurer: Dawn-Marie Milton- first semester and Christina Whetstone- second semester, and Secretary: Martha Barwick) has worked hard at increasing A. W. S. involvement. Our "50's Sock Hop" Big Sister/Little Sister Party was a huge success. One senior told me that this was the best one that she had gone to in her four years at E. N. C. A. W. S. is responsible for scheduling woman's open houses and sponsoring two Homecoming representatives. In regards to open houses, we tried to incorporate a little variety by co-sponsoring a "Trick or Treat" open house with the A. M. S. and hosting a double (men's and woman's) Christmas open house. We also hosted the first annual "Ladies' Birthday Brunch". The ladies sat at tables with other women who shared their birthday month. Hostesses for each month creatively decorated their tables according to a specific month theme. The A. W. S. also hosted an upperclassman slumber party complete with ghost stories, movies, games, and truth or dare. Some other activities which we hope to incorporate this year or in the following year include women seminars, a Big Sister/Little Sister Reunion, and a Ladies' Ice Cream Social. The A. W. S. possesses great potential to better the lives of E. N. C. woman in all facets of college life including resident hall, social ,recreational, and spiritual life. Enthusiastic leadership and active participation by the women of E. N. C., will continue to make the Association of Woman Students a positive and influential organization!

hroughout the year I've seen a posi- ve turnaround in the participation of vents held by A. M. S. As I had said in the beginning of the school year, my goals for this organization were to hold well organized schoolwide events to, at the least, stabilize this office for the coming years. We feel that with the fall tennis tournament, trick-or-treating with A. W. S., co-sponsoring the Quincy clean-up and the spring golf tournament, that the main goals were achieved . Thank you to everyone who participated.

Our year, lab report style...
Purpose: To provide a means for lab-living, bone-memorizing, agar-using biology majors, professors and friends to have fun, fun, fun!!!
Materials: People of questionable sanity, parties, international foods, salt dough, a volleyball, and a 3165-foot-high mountain.
Procedure: Have meetings about once a month and mix the above ingredients for one academic year.
Data: Our opening event this year was a spleniferous climb to the summit of Mt. Monadnock, which was dressed in vivid autumn colors at the time. We didn't loose anyone, even when a few rebels among us ventures onto steep cliffs.

An international dinner, also early in the year, featured dishes from around the world. Authentic Chinese and Malawain specialties were prepared by Julie and Jim. Our humbling initiation for new victims took place that same evening.

Salt dough was used to make ornaments for Dan's Christmas tree again at this year's party. Ornaments ranged from iguanas and snakes to wreaths and angels. The gift swap left party-goers with army rations and a red and blue plastic dinosaur-lawn decoration, among other things.

We won the annual science division volleyball tournament this February, but the Chemistry and Physics teams had the same fun, and suffered the same sore muscles that we did.
Conclusion: New friendships have developed and old ones have strengthened. We have had a great time. To polish the year off, we are planning a basketball tournament, a picnic at the Arnold Arboretum, a plant sale (which was very successful last year), and our traditional year-ending banquet.

International Students' Organization

The International Students' Organization was formed by a few international students back in 1989. However, it only formed proper organization in 1991 lead by M. Andrea Scott.

I. S. O. has greatly improved in their outreach and spreading of multicultural awareness throughout E. N. C. campus and Quincy community. In such a short period it has grown from what used to be a group of students meeting to share in fellowship, to an organized group sharing and spreading their cultures, beliefs, and ex periences.

In the fall there was an orientation held in Spange parlor for new students and many presentations given throughout the community. I. S. O. has had various outings including picnics and restaurants to share cultural foods. Also, in the Spring the I. S. O. is planning to set up an outreach program to various campuses where other international students are to foster closer relationships.

In the future we hope to remove stereotyping of various cultures and spread multiculturalism throughout E. N. C. and the world!

WENC 640 AM has had an excellent year with Continuous Broadcasting everyday! This years staff included Ken LeBeau (station manager), Karen Bell (promotions), Derek Churchill (Business manager), and Andrew Knight (Music Director). This years highlight was the second annual "Christmas Fest" which was a combined effort of Radio and Quincy cable to raise money for the Salvation Army.

"Hello, LOFT, how may I...I mean, Center for Academic Services, how may I help you?"

It took most of the semester, but the LOFT tutors (now CAS tutors) finally got the new "phone protocol" right, and we all survived the name transition. Then they decided to move us, finally, up to Third Floor Gardner. Miraculously, we all managed to remeber, for the most part, where we now worked (although some of us had to do some extra time on the stairmaster to get used to the climb!) My memories of the Center for Academic Services are of people: JanElle Suhr typing Bib. Lit. worksheets in the SI Instructor's office, Steve Bieler tutoring a Freshman in Intro. to Math, Janelle Neilson helping Grad. Students figure out the ancient Apple IIe's, Allison Wilson checking a paper for an ESL student, Andrea Scott and Kristin Fiacco working together on Wednesday night, and the Christmas party at Val Nyce's house, with Ryan Smith tormenting Mac, their dog. And what will be what I miss most about working at the center: My SI students, the tutors, the 'regulars', the other SI leaders, and Sharon Nichols and Valerie Nyce.

Business Club

This year was exciting and challenging for the Business Club. Despite some hardships and disappointments the council members were able to pull together and work as a team. We were able to accomplish a lot for the business majors at ENC, as well as promote our college to the business community at large. We are pleased to leave the next council a strong and vital organization that continues to prove itself an asset to the college.

Throughout the year of great loss and wonderful, new birth, disappointments and huge reassurances, sad good-byes and deep, new, meaningful relationships, God has been so very faithful in leading us all in His Kingdom. May this passage which provided so much strength, continue to do so in the exciting days ahead!

"Hast thou not known? Hast though not heard, that the everlasting God, the Lord, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? There is no searching of His understanding.

He giveth power to the faint; and to them that have no might he increaseth strength.

Even the youths shall faint and be weary, and the young men shall utterly fall:

But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; and they shall walk and not faint." Isaiah 40: 28-31

"Fear thou not; for I am with thee: be not dismayed; for I am thy God: I will strengthen thee; yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness.

For I the Lord thy God will hold thy right hand, saying unto thee, Fear not; I will help thee." Isaiah 41: 10 & 13

Anybody that may have said this ar wouldn't be or wasn't fun missed t on some great things...

Zeta finally got enough people to ld a society soccer team. And who uld forget the lovely chicken feast the November camping trip? Hey, w's about the great horseshoe and cceBall games at the All-School Outing!! The treasure hunt proved to bring some unexpected occurrences like a drunk in the cemetery, J.R. and his crew breaking up a one-hundred plus high school keg party, and my favorite, watching Jeff Seabron go psycho digging up the treasure!! 5 on 5 turned out to be yet another display of the fine undiscovered talent in the basketball ranks (where every mistake is always the ref's fault). Finally, our King's team kicked butt for yet another year.

I guess you could say there was nothing exciting this year...if you never got out of the library.

Thanks, I had FUN!!

Campus Camera

The Campus Camera has undergone many changes this year. The biggest of these is our new computer system, which has greatly enhanced our look. By doing the layout on the computer, we have been able to produce a more professional looking paper. The writing staff has also made a tremendous impact on the paper. They worked hard to make sure that stories are informative and interesting to the student body. I especially appreciate the numerous hours put in by Doug Mann, Coy Overpeck, Gene Tucker, and David Bennett, who spent numerous hours working to ensure that each issue was better than the previous one. The input of the section editors, Allison Wilson, Tim Ebo, and Ben Cornish, also proved to be very valuable. Their commitment to the paper, and to the issues on campus, helped to keep us going.

This year was a turning point for the newspaper. We have seen the work, and dreams, of many past editors come to fruition. We learned a lot, and hopefully we have laid the ground work for an even better Campus Camera in the future.

This year's Nautilus Staff gave a new meaning to the phrase "NAUTINAZ". There was never a dull moment. A few memories:

- Rob where are the pictures!!!!
- Angie when's the first staff meeting?
- The computer is coming when?
- How does this computer work? GENE!!
- Call this number and....
- My deadline is when?
- Rob get me those pictures! What do you mean they're gone?!!!
- Does anyone know how to do layout?
- "Do NOT touch my desk! NO exceptions!" Angie
- OK, I really gotta go to work!
- Tear the office apart, we really need those pictures!!
- "Don't worry!" Rob
- Hey look at these way cool screen-savers.
- "Here they are, I told you I took them!" Rob
- Oh no, not another all-nighter in the Nauti.
- And LOTS of love between Angie and Rob!! (and Mike)

The first activity of the year was the All-SchoolOuting, held at the Upper Pageant Field in Quincy. As the morning became afternoon, I watched a steady stream of people fill the once empty field and sand lots. While students played horshoes, volleyball, kickball, etc., Rec. Life council members (DJ's in disguise) blasted music across the park. most of the action took place behind the picnic tables where the MacInturfs instructed some of ENC's finest in intense games of Bocce Ball. The sand courts seemed to be the crowds favorite, as 70 or more people crowded around the three courts, and the only way we could get some of them to emerge was to announce lunch (cooked by a very fine cook ... thanks dad!). Exodus provided us with some music and Brad Grinnenclosed the day with a devotional. over 150 people made the journey to the field and because of their desire to have a good time, they made the day a success.

"Oh How Sweet It Was."

This is a phrase to describe this years harbor cruise aboard the Spirit of Boston . Under the directions of Christy Brown (Director of Social Activities) with the advise of Michael Desrosiers (Former Director of Social Activities) she chose the Spirit over the traditional Baystate Cruises. This boat is a 600 passenger, carpeted, 4 decks, mirrored and windowed boat.

The cruise lasted from 11:30 pm to 2:30 am. Music was done by Gene Tucker and michael Desrosiers. The topic of music or dance was not a major issue this (unlike my own) year. But the students got a chance to enjoy an all you can eat Italian buffet and a cruise around Boston's beautiful skyline. There were some that wanted to "get down/ 'bowl'" but resisted because they did not want this cruise to be the last cruise for the school.

Overall, this was an enchanting evening filled with excitement, ambiance and beauty. Students were able to restablish and establish new relationships aboard The Spirit of Boston.

Until then PEACE!!!

TIME FOR REMINISCENCE...

Without a doubt, Homecoming ekend is one of the highlights of the ar! The campus is filled with dents—old and new, past and present. owers trim the walkways, only mplementing the beautiful yet ditional decor. Memories are shared—ne stories embellished more than others. hatever the element, Homecoming ekend is indeed a time for reminiscing. d this year was no exception.

This year, Rhonda Winderl and Communications Arts department livered an astounding performance of hildren of Eden." And Stephen Schwartz not only watched the performances, but he also answered any questions ENC's audience might have. "Children of Eden" forced us to reminisce on all that God has sacrificed for His children.

The coronation was yet another reminder. Friends, families, and former royalty looked on as Timothy Ebo and Beth Dyment were crowned King and Queen, respectively. We were reminded, as always, that the heritage of ENC indeed stands strong.

Whether you were at the "Children of Eden," the coronation, the sporting events, or even the banquets, there was indeed the essence of reminiscence. Alumni reminisced on their ENC days; current students reminisced on their short ENC past, looking forward to a rich future; and friends and family reminisced on the impact ENC has made on the lives in their families.

Homecoming.

Reminiscence.

What makes all of this possible is that we here at ENC are indeed so very different from all the rest!

The Senior Class at the Retreat

Senior Retreat

The 1993 Senior Class celebrated four years of hard work at the Senior Retreat, held at Singing Hills Campground in Lebanon, New Hampshire. Everyone arrived safely at the camp, although some took a detour through Vermont to get there! After everyone settled in, we had a time of worshipping together, as well as hearing an inspiring message from Dr. Hill. Then the fun & games began - fruit basket upset, Kiss the King's Ring, Anatomy Shuffle, just to name a few. Saturday was also filled with activity. Some chose to play sports while others lounged by the lake. Another memorable time was the card-signing where we all had the chance write a message to our classmates. The weekend came to a close on Sunday after a worhsip service with Rev. Brown. All in all, it was a great weekend, one that will never be forgotten.

EDEN

We are the roses in the garden, beauty with thorns among our leaves.
To pick a rose you ask your hands to bleed.
What is the reason for having roses
when your blood is shed carelessly?
It must be for something more than vanity.

Believe me,
the truth is we're not honest,
not the people that we dream.
We're not as close as we could be.
Willing to grow but rains are shallow.
Barren and wind-scattered seed
on stone and dry land, we will be.
Waiting for the light arisen to flood inside the prison.
And in that time kind words alone will teach us, no bitterness will reach us.
Reason will be guided in another way.

All in time,
but the clock is another demon that devours out time in Eden, in our Paradise.
Will our eyes see well beneath us,
flowers all divine?
Is there still time?
If we wake and discover in life a precious love, will that waking become more heavenly?

Where do I even begin? I guess the polite thing is to thank anyone who even thought about Naut over the past year, but they all worry too much. I want to thank those who have cared, either al me or the book, those who helped, and maybe even those who hindered.

First of all I would like to thank my staff, Sylvia, Kris, Amy, Shannon, Rob, Liz and M each of you brought a different 'edge' to the past year, and I could not have done it without each of y I apologize for the things said, if harsh, the things unsaid, if avoided, and the tasks never comple Thank you all of your patience, creativity, and the ability to laugh when things were no longer fu (Sylvia and Kris, I am sure that you will be excellent next year!!)

Thanks to Carrie Brown who stepped in when I needed her and did a very creative faculty section for me. Tha for being there, and being a friend all four years, I'll miss you, and I've missed being a "PG."

Thanks to StuCo: Janelle-thanks for listening and helping when you could, Mark-thanks for being you and b my friend, Gretchen-thanks for laughing, Kipp and Brad-thanks for making me laugh-all the time, and Christy-thanks for b one of my very best friends, for road-tripping with me all of the way to Key West, for sharing your boyfriend, for doing a sec for me, and for being you !!!!

Jim, how could I have ever made it through without going next door and moaning, THANK YOU!!!! (no more board meetings....)

Thanks to Student Development, each of you have had the uncanny ability to answer any question I could possibly th at you....

Thanks to the Business Department for putting up with all of the questions, mishaps, and problems....

Thanks to Bob Murphy my company representative-you've answered the unanswerable.

Thanks to David Congalton and Carrie-the photos have always been perfect, but my timing never is, thanks for bea with my all year, it's been great working with real professionals.

Thanks to all of my friends, for their support, patience and love. I know the past year has been unbearable for a us, thanks for being there for me.

Jon-thanks for last summer and all of the good times during the year-...thanks for wax vampire teeth??-I can't wai Romania....

Liam-(thanks? for totaling my car) thanks for being my friend, can't believe another year has past.

Emily-thanks for being my friend, thanks for being my roommate this summer and last, good luck with the road trip.

krizjankey!-well, well, well, how was Mexico? I miss you. thanks for listening all of those years.

Cathe, Danyelle, Christian-thanks for putting up with me last fall. thanks for being my friends.

Sarah-welcome back? (for how long) glad your back, watch out M.M.L.C. Where are we going next?

Juliana-gosh, four years, who knows what the next four will bring, but I hope that we are friends forever.

Rhonda-well, I am sitting here burgundy, and somewhere you are red, I miss you. Thanks for sharing your life, I hope we can always share. Good luck in Flathead or Grand Junction.
